

PROJECT OVERVIEW

With a limited budget and unlimited imagination, homeowner Candy Carson set out to transform her tired, dated master bathroom into more of a sanctuary. "I was looking to create a restful, elegant environment that reflected my love of music," says Carson. "I knew that just replacing towels and pictures wouldn't cut it. The challenge was to totally transform the room while working on a strict budget!"

The recipe for Carson's successful master bathroom transformation included the use of multiple millwork pieces from Fypon. "The major fixtures in the room stayed the same, but we gave the room a face-lift with new moulding and accent pieces," says Carson.

Egg and Dart Moulding, painted shiny white to offset a new black ceiling, set the stage for other dramatic additions to the room. A ceiling fan accented with a faux-finished two-piece ceiling Charlene Medallion replaced an old heat lamp. A small wall Niche was added to hold a bust of Beethoven. A dark cupboard of towels is now a lighted Pilaster surround with glass shelves supported by sets of painted Knee Brackets.

"The Fypon products made a dramatic and impressive change in this room," says Carson. "It now looks like a bathroom you'd find in a luxury hotel...it's appealing to the eye and the soul. The room has become an oasis after a long work day."

Adding Fypon Pilasters, Door/Window Moulding, Plinth Blocks and Knee Brackets helped transform this wall nook into a showplace.

Faux finishes, Fypon millwork and new soft good items transformed a dated master bathroom into an elegant retreat.

PROJECT TIPS

- For color inspiration, Carson started with a rug she loves. Rich black and gold tones were carried throughout the room by being faux finished on decorator accent pieces including frames and mirrors.
- As with most homes, walls in the older house were "less than perfect" so Carson's team "mudded up" different areas before installing moulding pieces.
- A small cannon ceiling light installed in the bookshelf area opened up the nook and made it a focal feature in the room.
