

PROJECT OVERVIEW

To gain warmth and character in her new home, Lindy Lukert decided to add moulding. Lots of moulding. The Georgia homeowner, who didn't want to fuss with long-term maintenance issues, decided to install more than 4,200 lineal feet of Fypon® Crown, Base, Flat, Chair Rail and Shingle Moulding in her home. The result? An impressive study in how mouldings can transform plain rooms into inviting havens.

Situated on 45 acres of rolling fields and trees in northwest Georgia, the Lukert home has no reason for window shades. Their nearest neighbor is almost a mile away. That type of privacy is exactly what Phil and Lindy Lukert craved when they purchased their land.

“An abundance of space was critical in both the location and design of our custom home,” according to Lindy Lukert. “However, that doesn't mean we like things simple. Actually, I love the richness of mouldings in every room—at the ceiling and floor levels and everywhere in between!”

To quench her desire for mouldings, Lukert asked her builder to install Fypon Crown Mouldings in all her rooms, including a two-story high den and foyer. Chair Rail Moulding was added in the dining room (along with a Ceiling Medallion), and other rooms received special moulding treatments.

“Many of our ceilings are extremely tall, and I didn't want to worry about repainting mouldings each year,” says Lukert. “That's what led me to Fypon products. I understand the closed-cell nature of these pieces means less work long-term and I'm all for that.

“We have the moulding in every room—even the bathrooms and kitchens. Since these pieces won't warp or rot when exposed to the high humidity of steam, they're ideal for every room in the house.”
